Cuts at state level spell trouble locally

$130K SCRAMBLE AHEAD IF VETO NOT OVERRIDDEN FOR KINDERGARTEN GRANTS PROGRAM

By JAYNE W. MILLER

News Editor

Jayne@YourTownCrier.com

WILMINGTON /BOSTON - When Governor Baker signed the FY 2016 budget last week he also issued a number of line-item vetoes, drawing ire from educational advocates for the impacts of some steep cuts.

One of those vetoes cut $17M from an $18M budget for full day kindergarten expansion grants. If that cut remains in place Wilmington Public Schools will have to identify $130,000 in savings from its already-approved budget to offset the loss.

"It is not an insignificant amount of money to cut after town meeting approved the budget, the fiscal year already began, and we appointed staff. Now, we are being told we no longer have that $130,000 and have to find that funding from the local budget," Superintendent of Wilmington Public Schools Mary DeLai told the Town Crier this week. "I understand the Governor's rationale but this is a change in the rules of the game, and it pulls the rug out from under districts. At $17M a lot of districts are relying on those grants to provide free (publicly funded) full day kindergarten to students in their district."

Baker left $1M in the account to help districts that have yet to make the transition to full-day Kindergarten, but with the veto he signaled his intent to remove funding for districts that have already made the transition.

DeLai said that the district would first look to cut as much non-personnel expense as possible and then look at the revenue side of the budget. Chapter 70 aid for schools came in a little higher than originally planned, since most communities were conservative in their budget estimates. The town received a 2.5 percent increase in Chapter 70 aid, and the town may have budgeted lower than that. DeLai will sit down with Town Manager Jeff Hull to ascertain the difference and how much could be used to offset the kindergarten grant

Shawsheen Tech selects Broadrick for Superintendent

By JAYNE W. MILLER

News Editor

Jayne@YourTownCrier.com

BILLERICA - The Shawsheen Valley Regional Vocational-Technical School Committee voted unanimously Monday to enter into negotiations with Timothy Broadrick to replace retiring Superintendent Charlie Lyons. Should negotiations go well, Broadrick will move from his current role as Director of Technical Programs to the Superintendent's office.

"He's done just about everything," said School Committee member Robert Peterson of Wilmington, who also chaired the Search Committee. "[Tim] is a people person with political savvy. He's very astute about the big picture."

"I'm excited about the opportunity to lead the district. It is the fulfillment of a dream of mine," Broadrick told the Town Crier Tuesday. "I appreciate so much the work that has been done here, not only by Charlie Lyons, but by an outstanding professional staff over many years, and all of our caring

COMMUNITIES GATHER FOR 'Night Out' against crime

By LISA KENNEDY-COX

Correspondent

Lisa@YourTownCrier.com

WILMINGTON - On Tuesday, August 4, the Wilmington Police Department will be joining forces with thousands of communities nationwide for the "32nd Annual National Night Out" crime and drug prevention event.

National Night Out, which is sponsored by the National Association of Town Watch, will involve over 16,124 communities from all 50 states, U.S. territories, Canadian cities and military bases around the world. In all, over 37.8 million people are expected to participate in "America's Night Out, Against Crime."

National Night Out is a community-police awareness-raising event in the United States, held the first Tuesday of August and this is Wilmington's 2nd time hosting the event. Officer Matt Stavro is spearheading the event and spoke with the Crier.

"This is our second event which started last year after

They oughta write a book about her

Strong, dynamic Nancy Clark and A Planter's Seed

By Larz F. Neilson

How many times have you heard someone say, "You know, they ought to write a book about her?"

Well, that could certainly be said of the late Nancy Clark. And now, someone has.

The book is A Planter's Seed, and it has absolutely nothing to do with gardening or agriculture.

It was written by her youngest daughter, Valerie, who Nancy called "Number Ten." Yes, Nancy raised ten kids, and she had nicknames for each.

Amazingly strong and dynamic, Nancy lived much of her life in Wilmington. She ran her own real estate business, served on the Wilmington School Committee, wrote a column called "Nosey Nancy" for the Town Crier and took on special projects.

During the Vietnam War, she collected items to send to local servicemen. She took no position on the war, politically, but provided great support for Wilmington people in the service. In her "Nosey Nancy" column, she welcomed news from servicemen and shared addresses. She had no formal organization, but was assisted by many friends, who she called her "key people." These people would each do small things, but through Nancy's efforts, these tasks brought wonderful results.

While others at town meeting were wrestling with budget numbers and parliamentary procedure, Nancy Clark could usually be found at work on one of her special projects.

Among the many beneficiaries of her work were children on an Indian reservation in Arizona, servicemen on a hospital ship off Vietnam and Vietnamese children. This list would also include her "key people," who received the satisfaction of helping others.

She worked for several years at the Internal Revenue Service in Andover, and she had several people there collect yarn for her. Then she would take that yarn to the Wilmington Senior Citizens' Center, and people there would knit lap robes. Those lap robes would then be sent to hospitals.

In 1977, she was named Woman of the Year by the Federal Women's Council, an organization of people working for the Federal government.

The work she did wasn't just so much knitting, although she did plenty of that. She was a leader, a teacher, an inspiration and an effective organizer. She quietly taught those around her that one person can have a positive effect, and that this can spread.

And that is The Planter's Seed. The book is available from Valerie for $9.99 plus $2 shipping. You can contact her at a.planter.seed@gmail.com.

FOREIGN ASSETS AND THE IRS

The Internal Revenue Service is mighty pleased about its foreign-account amnesty program, in which it promised not to penalize holders of foreign bank accounts and the like as long as they 'fessed up and paid the taxes due on the money. Since 2009, when the amnesty program began, the IRS has taken in more than $7 billion from more than 50,000 former scofflaws. Better yet, the agency is checking the names of banks where the assets were hidden and going after them—with good results.

Now, if you have legal foreign assets—more than $100,000 at the end of December or $150,000 at any time during the previous year—the IRS expects that you will file Form 8938 with your tax return. (Note: the threshold for singles is half that, and lower yet for taxpayers who live abroad.) And the penalty for failing to file is $10,000!

The IRS is aware that some estate executors have failed to file this form or mention the assets and the income they earned. In that case, the normal statute of limitations is lengthened and the agency has a full three years after it discovers the hidden assets to go after the estate for the taxes owed.

Former Tewksbury resident named Executive Director of the New England Newspaper and Press Association

The New England Newspaper and Press Association (NENPA) has appointed Linda Conway, a veteran manager with NENPA, as its new executive director.

Conway grew up in Tewksbury, and lives in Charlestown with her daughter, Sydney -- most recently has been advertising and business development director for NENPA. She began working with one of NENPA's two predecessor organizations, the New England Press Association, in 1995.

She replaces Dan Cotter as executive director. Cotter left in March to become director of sales development and training at GateHouse Media New England, based in Randolph, Mass.

The NENPA board of directors voted to promote Conway to executive director at its meeting Friday, June 19.

"Dan laid a terrific foundation for NENPA during his tenure here, and I'm looking forward to building upon the momentum established to provide even more successful, valuable services to the newspapers of New England," Conway said.

Peter Haggerty, president of the NENPA board, said, "While the board of directors conducted the customary nationwide search, there never was a rush or concern about the association's operation. With over 20 years' experience and having served as interim director once before for almost one year, Linda Conway stepped up to manage the association."

"Over the past five years,

with the combined leadership of Dan Cotter and Linda Conway, NENPA has grown to be recognized as one of the best media associations nationally. While there is a strong board of directors, it is the day-to-day management and talented staff at the NENPA office that has produced such success.

"In making the permanent appointment as executive director, the board of directors recognized the experience and professional growth of Linda Conway to have the ability to continue the success of NENPA."

"I personally over the past few months during this leadership change have appreciated the efforts of the entire NENPA staff and, because of them, I'm confident the association will continue to grow and be vital to our industry," Haggerty said.

David Costello, immediate past president of NENPA's board, said that "during the last six to seven years of my term on the NENPA board, I have seen Linda grow personally and professionally, giving me the confidence she is ready to lead the organization."

Cotter said: "It would be an understatement to say that Linda Conway has played a major role in the success NENPA has had in recent years. Day in and day out, the NENPA staff and I had the benefit of her exceptional problem-solving skills, her hard work and deep commitment to the organization, and her wisdom based on many years of experience. The New England newspaper community will indeed be quite fortunate to have her working on their behalf in this leadership role."

The New England Newspaper and Press Association is a professional trade organization that represents more than 450 publications in the six New England states: Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine and Rhode Island.

NENPA places millions of dollars of print and online advertising in New England newspapers each year through its one-order, one-bill service.

It also organizes New England newspaper conventions, conferences and trade shows, and hosts numerous professional development and training programs throughout the year. NENPA also provides newspaper and staff recognition through awards events; furnishes legal advice to member publications; publishes a news website, the Bulletin; maintains a New England job bank; and is affiliated with six other newspaper organizations in New England: the Massachusetts Newspaper Publishers Association, New England Society of News Editors, New England Newspaper Operations Association, New England First Amendment Coalition, Journalism Education Foundation of New England, and the NENPA Marketing and Advertising Council.

Conway said she told the NENPA board that she and the NENPA staff will continue to pursue advertising opportunities aggressively during her time as executive director.

Conway said she also plans to focus NENPA's future efforts on its training and events initiatives.

"We plan to continue to build out our year-around slate of training programs, called NENPA University, which provide ongoing professional development for those that lead and staff our member newspapers," she said.

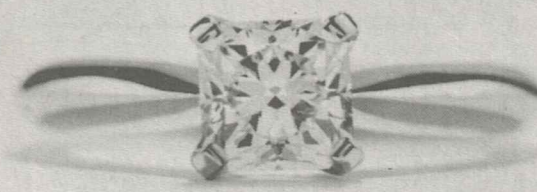

The programs take place at NENPA's headquarters on a suburban campus of Northeastern University in Dedham, Mass.

"We have several sessions scheduled for the coming months, including advertising sales, column writing, legal issues, project management, and watchdog reporting," Conway said.

"One of our major initiatives moving forward is events management with our member newspapers. We're working with several members to produce events and expos in their communities. We plan to expand this service to more members over the next year, and expect that it will be an area of growth," she said.

Conway received a bachelor of science degree in mass communications, with a journalism concentration, from Virginia Commonwealth University in 1995.

Good old-fashioned, technology-free fun

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Town Museum's Brown Bag Lunch and Games program resumes this Friday, July 24, from noon to 2:00 p.m. Visitors to the Museum are invited to bring a picnic lunch to enjoy on the grounds of the Town Museum. Museum guests will also have the opportunity to play a variety of old fashioned games including hoop roles, cup and ball, badminton and more! And as a special treat this summer, Lunch and Games participants are also eligible to win tickets to an August Lowell Spinners game! This offer is good until the last Brown bag Lunch and Games day on Friday, August 7. So, if you haven't checked out the Town Museum yet, or our Brown Bag Lunch and Games program, summer 2015 is the time to do it!

The Wilmington Town Museum is located at the Harnden Tavern, 430 Salem Street in Wilmington. For more information call 978-658-5475.

American Legion Post 136 notes

V.A. Cookout: The date has been set for the V.A. Cookout that our Post has volunteered to sponsor and run. It will be held on Saturday, August 1st at 1:00PM. Some volunteers have already stepped up. We can use all the help we can get.

Our Service officer, Mark Micalizzi, is in the process of helping one of our long time members receive healthcare through the V.A. system. If anyone needs help getting through the red tape, or needs info, please call Mark at 978-427-8883.

Our Color Guard made a good showing in The Flag Retirement Ceremony on Flag Day at The Harnden Tavern. Thanks to all who came out and to the Wilmington Minutemen, for arranging it.

We now have our membership cards for the upcoming 2016 cycle. Dues can be paid at The Post.

Cub Scout Pack 136 did a fundraiser at the 4th of July Celebrations at the Shriner's. They sold hot dogs, etc.

Boy Scout Troop 136 has three members working on their Eagle projects, and will soon be awarded their Eagle Badges. Congratulations to these young men.

Please try to come by the Post and drop off non-perishable food items for The Wilmington Food Pantry. Many of our neighbors depend on this as they have fallen onto hard times. Contact Frank, at The Post (978-447-1533) with any questions.

We still have Post 136 T Shirts for sale and there is a new batch coming in soon. They can be purchased at The Post. They are priced at $20.00.

Taps: It is with great sadness that we announce the passing of long time member, Robert L. Corcoran. He was a WWII Marine Corps Veteran. He will be missed.

Sick Call: All is well, that we know of.

If anyone has any info that would pertain to the post; members under the weather, members passed or any other info that members might be interested in, please email to: wd.rowe@verizon.net.

The next Members Meeting is on Saturday, July 25th, at 12:00 Noon, at the Post. Hope to see you all!

This week was a hard but fulfilling week for many school leaders as we will review below, as the spotlight focused on the social and emotional needs of children in our schools and communities. This topic, along with that of the so called "alternative route" signs and tossing around blame, are also discussed going forward.

Superintendent's institute

As we commented, this week close to 400 school leaders gathered for the 21st Annual Executive Institute for three intensive days of keynote presenters, structured topics and time for connecting with each other on issues of common concern in all of our urban, suburban and rural school districts and communities in the Commonwealth with a great deal of sharing and learning taking place.

The keynote presenters were Mark Kennedy Shriver of Save the Children, well-known author Douglas Brinkley along with numerous other well known officials at the federal and state level. The focus, as we commented earlier, was on the social and emotional issues of our students and members of our cities and towns.

Mark Shriver talked at length about the serious needs of so many children in terms of emotional needs, coming from home situations, less than favorable and pointed to the desire for educators at all levels to be aware of the needs of these young people. He also referenced the so called "after 3 PM" time block when free time for students can be the time for problems. He pointed to the great work of the Boys & Girls Club along with the YMCA's for their efforts to reach out to help these young people.

Historian Doug Brinkley, a Professor of History at Rice University in Texas, commented on the importance of how our leaders did or did not understand the importance of the social needs pointing to the great work of FDR in this area and reviewed stories back to George Washington, as well as US Presidents in the recent decades.

Brinkley also took the time to point out the importance of the students knowing the history of their own communities and that they see local and state monuments and their place in the framework of history, commenting to me that he was heading off this week with his family and visiting national parks. He added, he also wanted to make more personal progress at getting to more major league baseball stadiums in the United States with his personal goal to get to them all.

Following all keynote presenters were afternoon conference sessions on all of the various topics of the social and emotional needs that must transfer to more staff professional development for all and community education, along with looking at some existing community based programs. Children's Hospital had two of their representatives present. They gave some very specific advice to superintendents on what they see and some ideas that should be placed into action.

Alternative routes

If you travel Interstate Route 93 these days, you may see signs saying "take alternative routes" which for many folks leads to total confusion. First, while you understand what the sign says, you have no clue what it means in terms of the actions you need to take. If you are from the local area, you may know that there is trouble ahead and you need to vacate the road.

Most folks, unless you know the side streets of Medford, Somerville, etc., do not feel comfortable in leaving I-93 with no definitive roads listed. You also don't know if that means there is an accident ahead or the road is closed. My suggestion is that we give a little bit more of an instruction on these so called "message boards" as the current signage is not clear enough.

The blame game

This week we saw a "breaking news" story about a young man far away from Boston, being allegedly involved in a horrible crime. Now the reporting of the crime was essential as neighbors needed to know who was living in their area, as well as that the police had the situation under control. However, soon the story shifted to the fact that this young man was the son of a police captain which somehow made this the story, as the media had his suburban home covered as the family was trying to cope.

Somehow we need to shift the emphasis away from those who are innocent, whether they are family or not and place the spotlight on the problem site or alleged individual. Is this too much to ask?

Let's Talk About Hearing

by Loleata Wigall

What made you do something about your hearing?

Audiologists and hearing instrument specialists like to improve people's lives. Helping someone hear better in their own environment is rewarding. Helping someone select the level of technology that fits their budget and lifestyle is only part of the puzzle that professions help clients navigate.

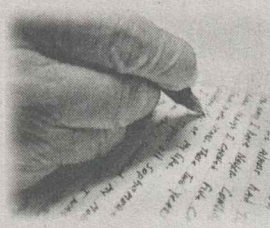

I am sure that many people avoid prescription glasses in favor of the magnifiers that can be purchased over the counter at every pharmacy. I am jealous that a friend of mine has a pair of glasses to match her every outfit! I realize that the magnifiers are much less expensive than prescription glasses. When I got my first pair of glasses at age thirteen, I said to my mother, "Oh, I didn't know that trees had individual leaves!" Today, my glasses are the first thing I put on in the morning and the last thing at night. I need prescription glasses and have to pay for them. The trigger point at age thirteen was an eye examination of all students in the school. I failed the screening. I got prescription glasses.

Over the years, I have participated in hearing screenings at senior centers and health fairs. I keep good records of the people I see at those events. I sometimes see the same people multiple times at the events, but they do not come to the office for a complete test. The screening event is not something that pushes people to take their hearing loss seriously.

I have tried to figure out what the "trigger point" is for people. What is the event or an event that finally makes a person "do something about their hearing loss"? It doesn't seem to be hearing screenings at fairs. Statistics show that most people wait between seven and ten years to purchase hearing aids - even if they know they need them. What happens to finally get the person to make the appointment and have a complete hearing test and purchase hearing aids? Is it not hearing the spouse or children? Maybe it is not hearing the boss or co-workers? Missing out on the stories grandchildren tell seems to give some people a push to help themselves hear well.

There are over 38 million Americans with hearing loss and only about 4million wear hearing aids. Many more people should be wearing hearing aids and improving the quality of their lives by communicating better with their family, friends, and co-workers.

Relay for Life Thanks

Dear Editor,
I wish to extend a sincere thank you to the residents of Wilmington and Tewksbury who attended the American Cancer Society's Relay For Life as a survivor, volunteer, caregiver, sponsor and in honor of loved ones lost to or fighting cancer.

Because of your support, our event was uplifting and successful, and the American Cancer Society is able to help people facing cancer in every community by funding groundbreaking cancer research, supporting education and prevention efforts, and providing free information and critical services for people with cancer who need them. We couldn't have done it without you.

There is still time to help. Relay For Life donations can be made through Dec. 31 at relayforlife.org. Please know that cancer information, resources and support are available free of charge, 24 hours per day, to anyone in the community and beyond at cancer.org and 800.227.2345.

I look forward to seeing you all in the community in the coming months and to our 2016 Relay For Life.

Thank you,

Julie Raueo

Sounds of Summer continues on the Wilmington Common

The Wilmington Recreation Department's "Sounds of Summer" Concert Series concludes on the Wilmington Town Common on Wednesday, July 29 with a performance by The Reminisants, Boston's best oldies and request band. This concert, from 6:30 - 8:00 p.m., is sponsored by Dunkin Donuts at 195 Main Street and Dunkin Donuts at 321 Main Street.

The Reminisants have performed with many Rock N' Roll legends including the Beach Boys, Herb Reed's Platters, Bill Haley's

Comets, B. J. Thomas and Chubby Checker to name a few. Come out and dance to the oldies with this band that has been entertaining audiences of all ages throughout New England since 1973.

The band specializes in music from the 1950's through the 1990's, playing a collection of great music for all kinds of musical tastes and generations.

Bring dinner, chairs or a blanket, and relax on the Town Common as we reminisce with the Reminisants. See you there. (Rain date: Thursday, July 30)

Caruso named to Dean's List

Sean Caruso of Wilmington, majoring in Communications has been named the Spring 2015 Dean's List at American International College.

Dean's List students are full-time students with a grade point average between 3.3 and 4.0.

American International College is a private, coeducational institution offering undergraduate and graduate programs in the schools of Business, Arts and Sciences, Health Sciences, and Graduate and Adult Education.

Officer Raymond Cote (l.) and Officer Ashley Melito (r.) flank Middlesex Sheriff Peter J. Koutoujian at the ceremonies on July 2nd.

Pair of Tewksbury residents graduate as new corrections officers

The Middlesex Sheriff's Office celebrated the graduation of 26 new corrections officers in a ceremony held Thurs., July 2, at the UMass Lowell Inn & Conference Center.

Of the graduates of the 38th Basic Training Academy, 24 recruits joined the Middlesex Sheriff's Office, while two joined the Norfolk Sheriff's Office.

Two Tewksbury residents among the graduates included Officer Raymond Cote and Officer Ashley Melito.

In addressing graduates, Middlesex Sheriff Peter J. Koutoujian reminded the new officers of the crucial role they play in the criminal justice system.

"We are not an island in corrections, but rather a piece of a diverse and interconnected system made up of court officers, judges, police officers, parole officers, probation officers and prosecutors," said Sheriff Koutoujian, "all working to ensure the public is protected and justice is applied fairly and impartially."

In addition to Sheriff Koutoujian, graduates also heard from Middlesex District Attorney Marian Ryan and Massachusetts District Court Chief Justice Paul Dawley, who offered the keynote address.

Last week's graduation marked the fourth during Sheriff Koutoujian's four-year tenure, with 167 academy-trained officers joining the ranks of the Middlesex Sheriff's Office in that time. Prior to 2012, the last academy was held in 2008.

Those who graduated Thursday received 12 weeks of classroom and practical training focused on interpersonal communications, corrections and criminal justice systems, transportation procedures, defensive tactics, firearms and first responder training, among other areas. Graduates had to successfully pass both classroom and physical fitness tests.

Caswell to Motel 6

Don't tell me now that since the Motel Caswell got torn down that all the crime is going to shift to Motel 6. So far this week I read two warrants that were being served by Tewksbury Police at Motel 6 in the police log.

Flags at Half-Staff

Our country lost 5 brave soldiers, murdered on American soil this past week. My heart is heavy for these families that have sacrificed so much. I was pleased to see the flags around town at half mast but when the post office was at full staff I went in and inquired why. The postal employee stated that only the postmaster can lower the flag to half staff and he takes his orders from the president of the United States. The president did not order flags to be lowered. Imagine if that was your son.

Editor's Note: President Obama did order flags to half staff on Tuesday, July 21, 2015.

Tewksbury:

Adopt an Island Program

Going on Now

The Town of Tewksbury has officially launched their Adopt an Island program open to the residents and businesses of Tewksbury. Residents can now choose to "adopt" one of the many spaces around Tewksbury, and help care for it over the course of time between May and October of each year. In return for caring for each island, the town places a sign recognizing your work for all to see, and also provides the necessary loam for flower planting. Be sure to visit <http://www.tewksbury-ma.gov/> for more information on the new program.

Reading Symphony Orchestra has openings

The Reading Symphony Orchestra is eager to welcome new musicians for our 2015- 2016 season. Under the leadership of Maestro George Ogata, the RSO will be performing the Dvorak Cello Concerto, Beethoven's Symphony No. 5, Brahms' Symphony #1, and Bernstein's Symphonic Dances from West Side Story next season, in addition to other masterworks.

Our season includes three concerts (November/March/May) and weekly rehearsals on Tuesday evenings at Coolidge Middle School in Reading, MA.

We currently have openings for: Bassoon; French Horns (including principal); Violas; Double Basses and Percussion.

We are holding auditions on August 25, 2015 and September 1, 2015 from 6:30 - 10:00 PM at the Unitarian Universalist Church of Reading, 239 Woburn St., Reading, MA 01867.

For these auditions, musicians are asked to prepare excerpts from two (2) contrasting pieces: one that is fast and technical while the second should be slow and lyrical. These selections may be movements from the same concerto or sonata, or two completely different pieces. Each excerpt should last no more than three minutes. Candidates will also be asked to sight-read, and no scales will be required.

Please contact RSO Personnel Manager Judy Braude (judy.braude@gmail.com) and Music Director George Ogata (georgeogata@yahoo.com) to arrange your audition time.

TEWKSBURY RESIDENTS PUBLIC NOTICE ANNOUNCING SMOKE TESTING

During the week of July 27-31, 2015, The Tewksbury Department of Public Works will be performing an investigation of the sanitary sewers via smoke testing in the area north of Andover Street, east of Sawyer Lane, south of River Road, and west of the Town line with Andover; including the Ames Pond Apartment Complex and Corporate Center areas.

The purpose of this investigation is to locate sources of stormwater inflow to the sanitary sewer system such as catch basins, area drains, roof drains, broken sewer pipe and deteriorated pipe joints. Smoke testing consists of introducing smoke into the sewer pipelines and visually observing its discharge points. The smoke is white and leaves no residue. Should smoke enter your home, please notify a member of the crew performing the smoke testing and the crew will investigate the source.

The Police and Fire Departments will be notified of smoke test locations.

If you have any questions, please contact either Pieter Hartford of MPH Environmental at 508-320-7269 or Dan Scott, Project Manager for the Town of Tewksbury's Engineering Division at 978-640-4440 ext. 224.

The Dangers of Heat Stroke

Keeping seniors safe during the hottest days of summer.

By SHARON ADELMAN CROWLEY
Crier Correspondent
Sharon@YourTownCrier.com

As New Englanders are well aware, temperatures fluctuate from day to day throughout summer. One day might be a breezy 70 degrees and the next - a scorching 90.

Changing climate and heatwaves are responsible for more deaths annually than hurricanes, lightning, earthquakes and floods combined, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

The CDC reports seniors over 65 are less likely to sense changes in temperature, making them prone to heat-related illnesses such as heat exhaustion and heat stroke.

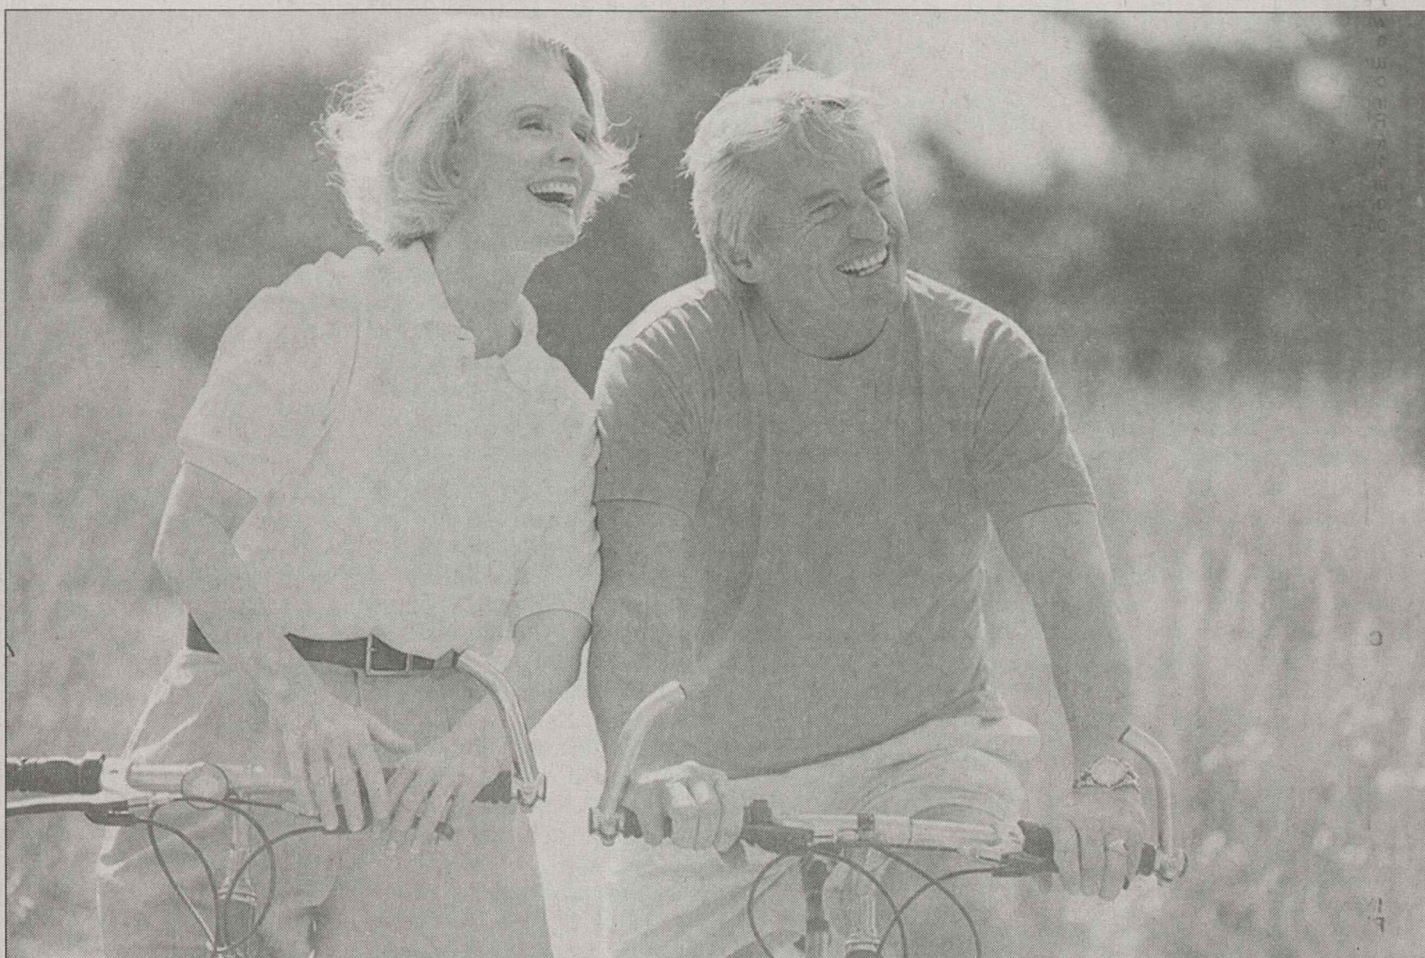

Heat exhaustion can develop suddenly or several days after exposure to high temperatures combined with high humidity. The warning signs as reported by the Mayo Clinic include excess sweating or cool, moist skin with goose bumps when in heat, dizziness, fatigue, muscle cramps, nausea and/or headache.

If untreated, heat exhaustion can develop into heat stroke, a potentially life-threatening condition that occurs when the body is unable to sweat and cool down. Body temperature can rise rapidly within 10 to 15 minutes of direct exposure to excessive heat, indoors or out. Warning signs include red, hot and dry skin, rapid pulse, headache, dizziness, nausea and a body temperature above 103 degrees.

Both conditions require immediate medical attention, especially if the person's condition deteriorates. To prevent heat stress, friends, family and caregivers should be on the lookout for a few mistakes commonly made by seniors.

Physical activity outdoors during peak hours of the day: mowing, yard work or outdoor exercise could be too strenuous for the elderly in excessive heat.

Unchecked risk factors: certain prescription medications and chronic medical conditions put seniors at risk for heat-related stress.

Cycling is a great outdoor activity, but be careful on hot days. Avoid being outside during the hottest part of the day, typically from 10PM to 4PM. Hydrate, wear appropriate clothing, and always exercise outside with a friend.

Inappropriate dress: poor circulation can make seniors feel cold during the summer. As a result, they may wear sweaters and other heavy clothing which trap heat close to the body.

By avoiding periods of extreme heat outdoors during mid-day hours seniors can prevent heat-stress.

"It is important for seniors to find relief from the heat and humidity," said Sarah Kinghorn, Public Health Nurse for the Tewksbury Board of Health.

Kinghorn said seniors can seek out respite in air conditioned malls, libraries, movie theaters and other community facilities.

The Tewksbury Senior Center is air conditioned and offers generous space for seniors to escape the heat. The center is open to the public 8am to 4:30pm, Monday through Friday (and occasionally on nights and weekends). "Folks are welcome to come into the air conditioned building to relax, socialize and stay all day if they like" said Ashley Springman, Director of Tewksbury Council on Aging. "Most activities are for seniors 60 and over. We have a water bubbler in the server area as well as a vending machine with other refreshments."

There are 20 exercise classes each week, a billiards room, daily lunch (with two days' notice), Tuesday bingo, art classes and a staff nurse on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Springman said seniors should call for nurse's hours if they are not feeling well or affected by the heat.

The Buzzell Senior Center in Wilmington offers similar programs. Open 9am to 4:30pm Monday through Friday (with the exception of holidays) all seniors are welcome. "The department has air conditioning, water (to help stay hydrated) and if anyone is in need of a fan or air conditioning, we can try to assist them," an employee told the Crier. "This is a great place for anyone to come on hot days like today."

Experts say the number one protection from heat-related illness is air conditioning.

Hydration is equally important. "The best liquid to drink during hot, humid days is water," said Kinghorn. "Drink plenty of water - even if you are not thirsty - in order to stay hydrated."

Dehydration can become life-threatening to an elderly person, who as they age may not recognize changes in thirst. Heat and dehydration can cause dizziness and falls. Warning signs are confusion, irritability and poor skin elasticity.

Offer non-alcoholic, caffeine-free beverages and check with a physician before increasing liquids to make sure it does not affect any medical conditions.

Encourage seniors to use the buddy system when exercising outdoors. During walks, take a friend or two - and a cell phone - in the event there is a medical emergency.

Seniors should wear light-colored, loose-fitting clothing indoors and out during summer months, use sunscreen as sunburns increase body temperature and choose hats which are loosely woven and shade the entire face.

Additional tips: during heatwaves, try not to use the stove which will increase temperatures in the house. Dim lights which also give off heat.

Use cool showers or baths to cool down. Check the local news for the heat index which factors humidity and temperatures.

"Family and caregivers should be sure to check in on elderly neighbors," said to Lieutenant Green from the Wilmington Fire Department. She recommends using the "File of Life" - a refrigerator magnet for EMTs to obtain critical information. "It has a list containing medications, medical history and doctor contact information" said Green. "An extra tool to have if they are unable to tell us what the issue is."

Green says if someone feels they are having a medical emergency such as heat-related stress or dehydration, call 911 immediately and an ambulance will be dispatched.

Academic Accomplishments

Niemiec named to Dean's List

Holly Niemiec, a Marketing Communications major, was named to the Dean's List in Ithaca College's School of Communications for the spring 2015 semester. From day one, Ithaca College prepares students for success through hands-on experience with internships, research and study abroad. Its integrative curriculum builds bridges across disciplines and uniquely blends liberal arts and professional study. Located in New York's Finger Lakes region, the College is home to 6,100 undergraduate and 460 graduate students.

Benvenuto receives Academic Excellence Award

Kayla M. Benvenuto of Tewksbury, MA, received the Dean's Award for Academic Excellence and Excellence in Forensic Chemistry Award at the College Honors Ceremonies at Western New England University. Dr. Saeed Ghahramani Dean, College of Arts and Sciences and Mr. John Drawec, Assistant Professor of Biology, presented the awards.

Graduating summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Science in Forensic Chemistry, Benvenuto is a member of Mortar Board, Alpha Lambda Delta, Omicron Delta Kappa national honor societies, and is named to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges 2013-2014.

Professor Drawec had this to say about Benvenuto "In addition to Kayla's academic success at Western New England University, her campus activities are equally impressive. She has served as a First Year Seminar Assistant, an Open House Associate, a Polling Institute Interviewer, a Science Center Tutor, and an Organic Chemistry Laboratory Teaching Assistant. Kayla is on the Student Affairs Committee for the University's Board of Trustees. She is the Treasurer of the University's Dance Team, Forensic Science Club and Mortar Board Society. She is a Peer Advisor, and a member of the Chemistry Club. Kayla is a talented and resourceful young woman inside and outside the classroom."

This fall, Kayla will attend the Boston University School of Medicine where she will pursue a graduate degree in Biomedical Forensic Sciences.

Tibbetts makes Dean's List at URI

The University of Rhode Island is pleased to announce that more than 4,600 undergraduate students have qualified for the Spring 2015 Dean's List. The students represent almost all of Rhode Island's cities and towns, all six New England states, New York and New Jersey, other states and countries. More than half of the students are Rhode Islanders.

To be included on the Dean's List, students must have completed 12 or more credits during a semester for letter grades with at least a 3.30 quality point average. Part-time students qualify with the accumulation of 12 credits with a 3.30 quality point average. Erin M Tibbetts of Tewksbury, MA was named to the URI Spring 2015 Dean's List.

Two locals earn degrees from Boston College

The following local residents graduated from Boston College:

Stephanie Fronduto of Tewksbury has graduated from Boston College with a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University's Carolyn A. and Peter S. Lynch School of Education (major(s): Applied Psychology and Human Development);

And Linden Hayes of Wilmington has graduated cum laude from Boston College with a Bachelor of Science degree from the University's Robert J. Morrissey College of Arts and Sciences (major(s): Physics).

Commencement was held on May 18 in Alumni Stadium on the Boston College campus in Chestnut Hill, Mass. There were more than 4,000 undergraduate and graduate degree recipients in the Boston College Class of 2015.

Kline earns diploma from James Madison University

Adam Scott Kline of Wilmington, MA graduated with a degree in Marketing - BBA from James Madison University during the May 8, 2015 commencement exercises.

Kline was among more than 3,500 students who received undergraduate, master's, educational specialist and doctoral degrees.

James Madison University offers each student a future of significance -- not an education of mere prestige, but an extraordinary education of exceptional scholarship, inventive thinking, unparalleled attention to the world's community, a university-wide enthusiasm for teaching, and a commitment to student success.

Lawrence Rod & Gun Club

Seminar on the new Mass. gun laws

LAWRENCE - The Lawrence Rod & Gun Club will be hosting a seminar on the new Massachusetts gun laws with Jon Green, the Director of Education and Training for the Gun Owners Action League (GOAL) on Thursday, 8/27/15 from 6:00 - 9:00 p.m. Handouts will be supplied.

The cost is $10 per person for members of any gun club. RSVP must be received by 7/27 with check to reserve a seat. Please include your contact information.

Seating is limited to 60 people, with Lawrence and Methuen Rod and Gun Clubs having first preference. All others are on a first received basis. Should you commit, and something arises and you are unable to attend, if your spot gets filled by someone else, the fee will be refunded.

After July 27th, if there should be seating still available, guests of members may send a check and contact information to reserve a seat.

Cut off date will be August 10 to allow for preparations.

Should a question and answer period run overtime, the 9:00 ending may be extended.

Members of Lawrence and Methuen Rod and Gun Clubs will have preference and then members of other clubs on a first received basis.

Silver Lake Little Free Library

Karen Campbell, Friends of the Library Book Store Next Door Manager and Debbie Cipriani, Wilmington Recreation Department Director worked together to provide beachgoers a collection of books for summer reading. Books are free and no need to return them. Special thanks to Linda and Elliot Kanter for helping construct the Little Free Library boat container.

Shawsheen Tech selects Broadrick for Superintendent

partners in the community. Our co-op partnerships and our industry partnerships are so much of a part of everything we do here."

The Search Committee engaged the services of the Massachusetts Association of School Committees (MASC), which includes certain Superintendent search tasks in the annual membership fee. As such, the committee received guidance and assistance with the search, but at no additional cost.

In total, just seven candidates applied for the position, three internal candidates and four from outside the school. Peterson said the small number of applicants was expected due in part to the unique requirements for being a vocational administrator, which inherently limits the available applicant pool.

Only the three internal candidates, Timothy Broadrick, Assistant Superintendent Carissa Karakaedos, and History Teacher Jessica Cook, advanced to the finalist round of interviews on Monday night. According to Peterson, they all possess a rich depth and breadth of experience.

"More than one member was torn," said Peterson, when it came time to vote. "I thought they were all outstanding."

Peterson said fellow School Committee member Bob Gallagher planned to vote for the candidate that was going to successfully continue the Shawsheen Tech brand. "I would agree with that," said Peterson, adding, "It was a question of, 'Of the three candidates, who is best suited right now to help us continue the tremendous success that we've had.'"

"All around his interview was outstanding," said Peterson. "His answers were outstanding. He had a total grasp of the job inside and out. With five different municipalities to deal with, Tim has the smarts, personality, and political wherewithal to deal with everything that comes with that. He was very well prepared. He was very well spoken."

Additionally, Peterson praised Broadrick's technical orientation and background. "He had a very clear vision of the school going forward."

Peterson praised Karakaedos for her interview and in particular noted that she offered an outstanding vision for the school. Karakaedos has a Certificate in Advanced Graduate Study and is a PhD candidate at Lesley College. She also holds a Superintendent/Assistant Superintendent license.

Cook also brings a strong educational background, though lacks administrative experience. She is a doctoral candidate at Boston University and holds a graduate certificate in Program planning, management, monitoring, and evaluation from BU. Currently she is a history teacher at Shawsheen Tech.

Broadrick began his role as the Director of Technical Programs in July 2013 where, according to his resume, he led the day-to-day operations of eleven technical programs while participating in multiple long term special projects.

Prior to that he was a Graphic Arts Instructor from 2004-2013 and a Lead Teacher from 2009-2013. He also taught adult education, was the yearbook advisory, and the Cross Country and Spring Track head coach. He holds a Master of Education in Organization Leadership from Endicott College.

Following Monday's interviews the School Committee voted 9-1 in the first round for Broadrick, with Tewksbury's Patricia Meuse voting for Karakaedos. In the second round of voting, the Committee unanimously selected Tim as candidate.

"I think everyone voted for the best candidate to fill the position right now," said Peterson.

receiving a grant through the Cummings Foundation," said Stavro. "[The event] gives people a chance to know their police department and interact with officers."

Established in 1986, the Cummings Foundation, Inc. (CFI) is a private operating foundation based in Woburn, Massachusetts. Cummings Foundation has grown to become one of the largest charitable foundations in New England, with just more than $1.2 billion in net assets as of December 2013.

Truly the grant has gone to a good cause. Wilmington's event is primarily focused on increased awareness about police programs in communities such as drug prevention, town watch, neighborhood watch and other anti-crime initiatives.

The events are typically organized by block watches, non-profit organizations, companies, and police departments.

For Wilmington, the event will include informational sessions such as emergency vehicle displays, crime prevention information, and K9 demonstration.

There will be displays from Massachusetts State Police, including the State Mounted Police, and horses, and possibly a state police helicopter. The US Department of Veteran Affairs and Police from the Bedford VA, and US Customs & Border Protection will all be on hand as well, to provide information on each of those agencies.

In addition, there will be a tour of the Public Safety Building, and a 'smoke house' tour by the Wilmington Fire Department as well as a display of the Jaws of Life.

There will also be activities including an inflatable obstacle course, a bicycle give away from Target, who will also provide water, and a dunk tank to raise money for Cops for Kids with Cancer.

Food will be provided by Red Heat Tavern. At approximately 8 pm the department will be showing "Mall Cop 2" on an inflatable screen.

Stavro's son, Jack Stavro will be the DJ for the event.

"It's a great opportunity for the community to come together with police," said Stavro, "If they have questions or concerns, this gives people a level playing field and a chance to have fun too."

For more information, contact Matt Stavro at the Wilmington Police Department at mstavro@wpd.org.

loss. DeLai said next the district would then look at instructional equipment and technology to get to at least $100,000.

"We're hopeful that we're able to bridge that gap," said DeLai.

The legislative delegation is on board as well.

Rep. Miceli told the Crier Tuesday that he has received a lot of e-mail, including letters from the Superintendent and the Chair of the School Committee, on this topic and is "confident" that the legislature will be able to override that vote. Miceli sent a letter to the Speaker on the issue. Rep. Linsky also sent a letter to the Speaker to override that particular veto and Rep. Ken Gordon signed onto that letter.

Linsky's letter, provided to the Town Crier by Rep. Gordon's office, says "This line item has successfully helped to continue quality enhancements of towns and cities that already have existing full-day kindergarten, and to expand other towns and cities from half-day to full-day programs. These grants act as a necessary resource for communities to successfully fund a full-day kindergarten program."

Linsky noted that the kindergarten expansion grants have seen the percentage of children statewide attending a full-day program rise from 29 percent in 1999 to 88 percent in 2014.

"Cutting this funding now would be a disservice to thousands of young children across the Commonwealth," wrote Linsky.

The House will hold its next formal session next week.

Two local students thrive in the classroom at Colby College Area students were named to the Dean's List at Colby College in Waterville, Maine, for their outstanding academic achievement during the spring semester of the 2014-15 year. The Dean's List at Colby is highly selective, this spring reserved for students with a semester grade point average of 3.76 or higher.

Kristin Esdale of Wilmington, Mass., is a member of the Class of 2016. She is the daughter of Robert and Jeanne Esdale of Wilmington, Mass., and attended Wilmington High School.

Melissa Preziosi of Wilmington, Mass., is a member of the Class of 2015. She is the daughter of Andrew and Lisa Preziosi of Wilmington, Mass., and attended Wilmington High School.

Founded in 1813, Colby is one of America's most selective colleges. Serving only undergraduates, Colby offers a rigorous academic program rooted in deep exploration of ideas and close interaction with world-class faculty scholars.

Students pursue intellectual passions, choosing among 57 majors or developing their own. Independent and collaborative research, study abroad, and internships offer robust opportunities to prepare students for postgraduate success. Colby is home to a community of 1,850 dedicated and diverse students from around the globe. Its Waterville, Maine, location provides access to world-class research institutions and civic engagement experiences.

Follow-up Fundraising Event for Jackie held at Tremezzo Restaurant

Sugrue Family proves that 'No One Fights Alone'

By BRENDAN FOLEY
Sports Correspondent

BrendanMFoley@Outlook.com

"Nobody Fights Alone". That is the motto attached to the poster board depicting Jackie Sugrue's triumphant struggle against ovarian cancer this past year.

And as dozens of friends, family, and Wilmington locals poured into Tremezzo Ristorante on Monday for a fundraising event, it was clear that Sugrue's courage and determination had brought many more people into her fight.

"I've had so much support. I really couldn't have gotten through this without my family, my friends, and Wilmington itself," Jackie Sugrue said. "Probably just the amount of people who reached out. The cards, the text messages, all this great support to not only myself but to my family."

The fundraiser was organized in large part through the efforts of Nichole Simbeck. A childhood friend of the Sugrue family and an employee at Tremezzo, Simbeck suggested that the Sugrue family take advantage of the restaurant's Monday night guest bartender program.

As the 'guest bartender' the participant is given a percentage of the night's proceeds to the charity of their choice. Simbeck jumped at the opportunity this presented to the Sugrues.

"I grew up with Jackie and I think the world of her," Simbeck said.

Jackie's father, Dave, was the guest bartender of choice, slinging teal-colored drinks while wearing a teal bandana over his head. Shirts emblazoned with "Sugrue Strong" were worn by dozens of individuals in the restaurant, with more being given out as the evening progressed. Even the wait staff were adorned in Jackie's colors.

Tremezzo co-founder James Martin was enthusiastic about the turnout and atmosphere of the evening. The restaurant is still relatively new to the town, and Martin is excited for any chance to build upon the Tremezzo's relationship with Wilmington.

"The heart-and-soul of our loyal customers, our guests, is in Wilmington, so we love to give back to the community," Martin said. "We just want people to know that this is what we are about."

That community spirit was thriving at Tremezzo as more and more familiar faces poured through the doors. Hugs were constantly being exchanged as the guests delighted in the chance to celebrate Jackie's triumphs. It was reflective

The Sugrue Family of Wilmington held a celebration of life at Tremezzo's Restaurant on Monday evening honoring daughter Jackie who is now cancer free. of the way the Wilmington community has supported Jackie all throughout her battle.

"I love the town," Simbeck said. "I want to raise my kids here. For me, I just want to be a part of the community as much as I can, however I can."

"It's amazing," said Nancy Otovic. "It's one of the bright spots of this whole situation. I'm not one bit surprised that everyone would do something like this for them. And I'm thrilled."

"We're all here to celebrate Jackie," Kayla Hanson said. "She's such a strong person, it's great to see her out and about and doing so well."

The Sugrue family was overjoyed with the support they have received from the town throughout Jackie's battle.

"The support from everyone has been absolutely amazing, how everyone has come together has been really nice," said Danielle Sugrue, Jackie's sister. "We wanted to give a big thanks to the community because we couldn't have done it without them."

And with her fight now won, Jackie is ready to get back to living. She has returned to her job as a nurse at the ER at Lawrence Memorial Hospital. If nothing else, she hopes that her own medical crisis will help her do an even better job at providing aid to the sick and the injured.

"Now I can sympathize and put myself in their situation," Jackie Sugrue said.

The wonderful news celebrated on Monday night is Jackie Sugrue is cancer free.

Cori Sughrue and her friends, Judy Meuse and Marilyn Lamson met up at Tremezzo's in honor of her daughter Jackie on Monday evening.

"I'm lucky in that I got to be on both sides of it, and I think that is greatly going to impact my nursing career." After the support she has received, Sugrue is ready to give some of that back, and will make sure that no one has to fight alone.

Caira to team up with former NBA player to run basketball camp

Stoneham High School Boys Basketball Coach Brian Caira, of Wilmington, has teamed up with former Boston Celtic Leon Powe to run the Leon Powe Basketball Academy, from August 10-13 inside the Stoneham High School gymnasium. The clinic will be offered to all boys and girls ages 10-17 from Stoneham and surrounding communities.

Caira recently finished running his second annual Stoneham Spartan Basketball School at the end of June. Caira said that the Leon Powe Basketball Academy is going to be a very unique opportunity to kids to learn directly from someone who has played basketball at the highest level. "I know if I were 10 or 12, I would have loved to have had a chance to go to a clinic run by a former NBA Champion", Caira added.

Powe was an integral member of the Boston Celtics when they won their 17th NBA Championship in 2008. Prior to getting selected in the NBA Draft, Powe was named as a Consensus All-American for the University of California. He continues to work for the Celtics today.

If you would like more information on the clinic or sign up to attend the Leon Powe Basketball Academy at Stoneham High School can do so by contacting the Stoneham High School Athletic Department at (781) 279-3810. Call soon as spots at the clinic are expected to fill up quickly.

Wilmington's Ninth Annual Tennis Clinic still has openings

The 9th annual Wildcat Tennis Clinic (August session) will run from August 10-11; 13-14 from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. at the Boutwell School tennis courts. Please note this clinic runs four days.

The clinic is a developmental and support program for those who intend to play high school tennis or for anyone looking to learn great game of tennis. Supported by the Friends of Wilmington Tennis, the clinic's head instructor is Wildcat Girls Tennis Coach Matt Hackett. Current Wildcat varsity players will assist Coach Hackett with instruction and demonstrations.

The cost of the clinic is $120 per player, and includes a t-shirt, guaranteed fun, and fundamental to advanced instruction.

Participants entering grades six through nine are invited to register. We welcome players of all skill levels. Space is limited to 12 participants, and fills up fast.

For registration information, please contact the Friends of Wilmington Tennis at friendsWT@verizon.net, or 978.658.8987. Check out the Friends' website at www.wilmingtontennis.org for more information on local tennis.

The #1 Sports Team in Tewksbury and Wilmington

The Town Crier Sports Department prides itself on being the best weekly sports section, not only in the two towns of Wilmington and Tewksbury, but in the entire state. No other weekly sports section covers every high school varsity athletic team like we do for WHS, TMHS and Shawsheen Tech. No other weekly newspaper covers local college and professional athletes like we do, as well as give coverage to road races, adult sports, and provide pages of youth sports in both towns every week.

The Town Crier provides accurate, insightful, and indepth coverage of all local teams and hard-working athletes every week, and has done so for the past five decades. The Sports Department of Jamie Pote, Mike Ippolito and Brendan Foley pride themselves on not only being the Sports Faces of both Wilmington and Tewksbury, but telling great stories about the athletes of these two terrific towns.

Opening Celebration of Dominican Invitational a big hit

By BRENDAN FOLEY
Sports Correspondent

BrendanMFoley@Outlook.com

Baseball is a game that requires no language, as several local boys discovered during the opening celebration of the first Dominican Invitational tournament.

Children from Tewksbury, Haverhill and Billerica enjoyed a series of spirited wiffle ball games against the newly arrived team from the Dominican Republic, kicking off what is hoped to be a week of friendly competition.

"We wanted to give the chance to get to know one another and get over some of their shyness," said Larry Bairstow, a man of all trades in the Tewksbury baseball program, and the main architect of the tournament. "There's really no competition involved, just boys getting to know each other."

Dozens of children from Tewksbury, Haverhill, and Billerica flocked to Sullivan Field for the games, many wearing their Tewksbury colors as they met the Dominican team. The Dominican boys, representing the Los Halcones de Francisco Oliva League, wore blue jeans and white shirts.

The games were played with wiffle ball bats, tennis balls, and at one point a deck chair was used as catcher. While the games initially began with the local boys playing against the Dominican team, coaches and managers began mixing teams up and allowing everyone to play with everyone.

The games continued without problem, even though there was very limited understanding between the American and Dominican players. But that did not seem to be a problem for the games, as American and Dominican boys all had a firm grasp of the game and played well off one another. Even as the Dominican players were cheering and calling in Spanish, baseball was still played.

"There's ways around the language barrier," said Erik Freitag, a manager for the Tewksbury National team. "They can still communi-

The Dominican players and coaches had been whisked to Tewksbury after an early morning arrival in Boston, a drive that apparently left many of the young ballplayers awed.

"We like it very much here," said Yindo Oliva, President of the Dominican League. "There are many people who are very nice. We love this place. God bless the United States, God bless Tewksbury, and God bless the Dominican Republic."

Yindo's son, Vinicio, a manager for the Dominican team, expressed the hope that the trip will foster long-lasting memories for all of the players on their team.

"We hope (the players) learn about the culture of the United States," Vinicio said. "It's like a dream for them. We hope they learn and that this is something they can hold onto for their entire lives."

The Invitational promises to be loaded with memories to the players can hold onto for their entire lives. Along with trips to Red Sox and Spinners games, the Dominican players will be taken on a duck tour of Boston.

And the Tewksbury community has moved to embrace these young ball players. Along with the over $11,000 raised by a GoFundMe campaign, locals like Darleen Flanagan have gone so far as to donate four turkeys for a dinner on Sunday.

As children from both countries laughed and clapped and cheered, it was the perfect spirit in which to kick-off the tournament. Whoever ends up with the most wins or the highest number of runs, everyone involved with the tournament has been given a chance to be a part of something special.

"It's been fantastic," Bairstow said. "The kids are intermingling, they're making friends, and they're playing ball."

"It's been great to learn about these kids and how they play and getting to know them," Freitag said. "It's a great time for the kids."

Wilmington Northeast Baseball team forces game three LOWELL—A combined effort from the entire Wilmington Northeast Baseball team has kept their playoff dreams alive in an ongoing series against Lowell. Despite recent losses and setbacks, Tuesday night's game at Lowell saw the Wildcats power through to a 3-1 victory to even the best-out-of-three series at 1-1.

The teams will play Game No. 3 on Thursday, 6 pm at the North Intermediate Field in Wilmington.

The winner of that game will advance to the next round of the playoff tournament.

Lowell entered the tournament ranked second in the Northeast Baseball League North Division, with a 7-6 overall record.

Wilmington's Chris Grecco controlled the mound for the entire contest on Tuesday, giving up only six scattered hits throughout the seven innings of play. He also notched six strike outs, keeping the Lowell offense down while the Wildcat batters went to work.

"We didn't have a ton of hits," said Wilmington manager Michael Gracia. "But we did string some of them together in the fourth inning."

Wilmington scored all three runs in the fourth inning, all with two outs. Max Hubbard had reached first on an error, only to be thrown out at second during a double play. Justin Kannally kept the team alive with a single, then reached third thanks to a big single by Josh Bartnicki. Kannally scored off a massive double by Connor Zaya, returning to the team after being away in recent games. Zaya and Bartnicki both scored off a single by Jared Spinney.

Wilmington benefited from fielding eleven ballplayers on the bench, the most the team has seen in a single game this season.

Tuesday's victory keeps the team alive just as it seemed like their season was going to end in disappointment. Lowell gave the Wildcats a run for the money during Monday's game. Despite ten strikeouts over five innings for pitcher Dan Gracia, the defense behind him could not seem to find their stride during the game.

"We definitely slack defensively," Gracia said. "Even the plays we made were shaky."

Isolated hits by Kannally, Spinney, Hubbard, and Matt Cronin did nothing to kick-start the offense.

Even with only seven hits against Gracia, it was enough to put Lowell over the top to take the victory, 2-0.

This loss, coupled with the team's ugly loss to Lowell Catholic on Friday night at the Middle School, could have put a dent in Wilmington's energy going into Tuesday games. Instead, the team has continued to persevere, and will next take on Lowell for the third and deciding game.

Even players who are not technically on the team are chipping in. Eric Spinney, Jared's younger brother, has become a beloved fixture on the team's bench, shagging foul balls for 35 cents. Eric's presence only adds to the family feel of the bench, and the team chemistry.

"The chemistry is great on this team right now," Gracia said. "I think that's a big part of it."

Wilmington Summer Baseball Round-Up

By BRENDAN FOLEY
Sports Correspondent

BrendanMFoley@Outlook.com
The Wilmington Big Diamond National Baseball team continues to look for a win as they enter the second half of their summer season. After nine games played, they have yet to win a game.

The big struggle has been simple numbers. In the very first game of the season, there were no umpires at the field, and so the game became a simple scrimmage. Other games have seen Wilmington have to forfeit due to lack of players.

“That’s been the big struggle,” admitted manager Rob Cameron.

Even with these setbacks, the dedication of several players has impressed Cameron. The team entered the summer with no catcher, and so players like Sean Devlin and Calvin Stafford stepped up to step behind the plate.

“They’ve really gone out there and done their best behind the plate,” Cameron said. “It’s really impressive to see kids come up to the Big Diamond team and really work at keeping their team in the game.”

Offensively, Wilmington has benefited from the consistent hitting prowess of Cam Saragosa. Thanks to the efforts of Saragosa and other hitters, the team has come within spitting distance of victory. A recent game against Tewksbury saw the National team take the lead during the early innings, only to have some defensive missteps lose the game in the closing innings.

But, with six games left, Cameron believes the jury is still out on the season, and some surprises may be store for anyone who doubts the team.

“If we put a couple wins on the board, the playoffs are coming up and anything is possible,” he said. “We can surprise a lot of people out there.”

PONY AMERICAN

The Wilmington Pony League American team has been enjoying a very successful season of summer baseball. With a current overall record of 7-2, the team is cruising into the second half of the season on the back of great plays and big wins.

Most recently, Wilmington trounced Marblehead with a 12-1 victory, then moved on to beat South Lawrence, 8-0. Wilmington manager Scott Edwards attributed these victories to the outstanding pitching and hitting displayed by the team in both games.

The good times kept right on rolling with Tuesday’s showdown against the Haverhill American team. Wilmington fought their way through to a close victory, with a 2-1 final score.

“We are getting solid contributions throughout the team,” Edwards said. “To say anyone has distinguished themselves over the other players would be a disservice to the team in whole in my eyes. Everyone contributes.”

The team has had time to figure out their chemistry.

“This summer season will leave lasting memories for all the kids that are aging out Wilmington Little League this year,” Edwards said. “Ten of the thirteen players are 16 years old and have played together and against each other for the last ten years.”

The Wilmington American team is currently sitting at second place in the Big Diamond Summer League American division. They trail the Mercedes American team by one game, as the Mercedes team has played one less game and has one

Under 10 Softball team competes in Milford tournament

Four young ladies from Tewksbury rolled into Milford, MA Saturday morning with redemption on their minds and brought along nine new teammates with them to help them get what they were seeking.

The Redmen made an early exit in the 2014 Summer Slam in 2014 and that was something Ally Costello, Paige Ouellette, Kayla Mirisola and Shea Frost were determined to correct in 2015.

Saturday morning the Redmen squared off with the Newton Panthers - Blue and came out with blazing hot bats including a bases clearing triple by Costello and a three-run home run by Sara Moeller. Kayla Mirisola and Samantha Ryan shut the Panthers down early and the Redmen tamed the Panthers 17-2 in four innings.

Game two the Redmen took the field against a familiar opponent the Nipmuc Warriors.

Tewksbury jumped out to an early lead but as the skies turned gray the 5-1 Tewksbury lead evaporated and the Warriors tied the game 5-5 and that is the way it would end as the thunder and lightning forced the game to end in a tie.

The skies cleared and Game three was the battle of the “Bury” Tewksbury vs. Shrewsbury Golden Eagles. Again the Redmen jumped out to an early lead but this time they would not look back. A solid outing by Moeller and more timely hitting Paige Ouellette, Kendall Von Khale and Sarah Downing put Tewksbury out in front for good as Ryan took the ball and closed out the Golden Eagles 9-5.

Saturday’s work earned the Redmen the No. 3 seed for Sunday knockout play. Game number four brought the Framingham Fliers (6) to Memorial Field to take on the Redmen. Costello took the ball and command of the game throwing four shutout innings and striking out ten Framingham batters before handing the ball over to Mirisola. The Redmen bats stayed hot top to bottom and the Redmen grounded the Fliers 12-2 in four innings.

Game number five was a semi-final and a rematch between Tewksbury and Nipmuc. As temperatures approached 95 degrees Moeller came out and brought more heat dominating Warrior batters while her catcher Shea Frost kept everything nice and cool behind the dish throwing out one of the few Warrior base runners of the game.

The Redmen scratched and clawed out three runs but that combined with Moeller and stellar defensive plays by Von Khale, Ouellette, Ryan and Colleen Craill would be enough for a trip to the finals. 3-0 Redmen victory.

Game No. 6 was the Milford Summer Slam Championship game was played at Milford High School. The Redmen squared off with the Dartmouth Dynamites and Sam Ryan got the nod to Start for the Redmen. Dartmouth jumped out to an early 4-0 lead. Kayla Mirisola came on and held the Dynamite to one run in 2.1 innings of relief.

Frost scored in the third inning for Tewksbury. Costello took the ball in the fourth inning and allowed one more Dyanamite run before slamming the door on the Dartmouth batters. The Redmen bats had gone silent though and Dartmouth defeated Tewksbury 6-1 for the 2015 Milford Girls Softball Summer Slam Championship.

Tewksbury Northeast team ends season with a win

By BRENDAN FOLEY
Sports Correspondent

BrendanMFoley@Outlook.com

The Tewksbury Northeast Baseball team managed to close their season on a high note with a close win against Billerica. Tewksbury struggled to put a win together throughout the season, but a command performance by Ryan Morris in pitching and hitting but them over the top with a 5-4 victory.

"We took advantage of the opportunities we were presented with," said Tewksbury manager Robert Wallace. "At one point, Billerica walked the bases loaded and we took advantage of that, much more than we had in previous games."

The effort was spearheaded by Ryan Morris. As pitcher, Ryan struck out five batter over five innings before being relieved by Tim Morris.

Morris also drove in the two tying runs with a single, making his offensive contributions as vital as his defensive ones.

But it took the whole team working together to get the win. Singles by Robbie Blodgett and Garrett Lane kept Tewksbury in the game. Troy Aconcia nailed a lead-off double in the sixth inning, and would eventually circle the bases to clinch the final run of the game.

Billerica's attempts at retaliation in the final inning were halted by catcher Braedon Parece. Parece threw a base stealer out at second to clinch the final out of the game.

Tewksbury finished with an overall record of 1-11. While disappointed in the final scorecard, Wallace takes pride in how much effort and energy the team expended during a difficult summer season.

"We never had to forfeit because we didn't have enough guys," Wallace said. "That's not something you could say about years before."

And even though the scorecard was rarely in their favor, a number of players for the Northeast team still showed exceptional growth over the course of the season. Wallace singled out Nathan Ell as the team's most improved player.

"He was probably our most improved player over the course of the season," Wallace said. "He struggled with the fielding in the beginning, but towards the end of the season, he was making some of the biggest plays on the field."

With many members of the team having to balance baseball against vacations, jobs, or even injuries, there were many roadblocks to overcome throughout the summer. The team played on, and managed to put out solid effort at each game.

It is Wallace's firm belief that this attitude and effort will pay off down the line for each of his players.

"Even though the season was a struggle, we showed up every day and we put the work in," Wallace said. "We had to take a process oriented approach and make sure you are doing the right thing every day. Even if the results aren't there, doing the right thing will pay off down the line."

Youth Sailing Program has openings

Quannapowitt Yacht Club still has openings in its popular Youth Sailing Program, a registered camp with the Town of Wakefield's Board of Health.

The sailing program
enrolls students starting at 8 years of age and entering third grade through high school. This is a fun way to learn to sail or to improve sailing skills. The club also offer a racing program and participate in several regattas in Massachusetts.

The Camp has running since June 23 but there still openings for Session III:

7/21-8/1; and Session IV: 8/5-

8/15. The Sailing Program cost 615 per session. The Racing Program is a 4 week program that takes place during two sessions, in the current case III and IV

($1265).

Younger kids are learning to sail Optimists whereas the older ones will sail in Mercuries, Daysailers, or 420's. Racing students will be able to participate in regattas on the ocean.

Forms can be downloaded at sailqyc.com. For further information call the Youth

Sailing phone number at (339) 203-9207. Note: QYC members get a reduced rate.

less loss.

Edwards is excited to get going on the last section of the season. If this is going to be the last hurrah for this bunch of boys, Edwards wants to make sure they go out swinging.

"I have either coached or coached against most of these kids in the spring since they started in T-ball," Edwards said. "I feel each and every one of these kids is respectful, talented and great teammates. I am a very lucky guy to have been their summer coach the last three to four years."

CORRECTION

In an article in last week's edition, the Town Crier referred to a player on the Wilmington 11-year-old All-

Star team as Ryan Kelly.

The player's name is actually Ryan Ackerley. This writer apologizes for this error.

Reading doctor training for international track competition in France

By GORDON VINCENT

If you've driven by Reading Memorial High's football stadium, usually very early in the morning, chances are you've seen a lone figure, working out on the track. The athlete you see is Dr. Calvin A. Brown III, a Reading resident who next month is scheduled to compete in the World Masters Athletics outdoor championships, to be held in Lyon, France.

Brown, 41, will be competing in the age 40-45 age division in the triple jump and the 200 meters, against the best in the world. He is currently ranked first in the U.S. and fifth in the world in the triple jump, which he won at the national championships in March in North Carolina.

He is also ranked 24th in the U.S. in the 200, and eighth in the 400 meters. He will not run the latter in France because the 200 and the 400 are being held at different stadiums on the same day.

Brown's usual early morning training regimen is out of necessity. When he's not on the track, he's a physician in the emergency room at Brigham & Women's Hospital, where he has worked since 2005.

"I do tend to train at some odd hours, usually after a shift at the hospital," Brown said. "It can be challenging sometimes to find the time to run, but I enjoy it."

A native of Tilton, N.H., Brown ran track in high school, and then went on to participate on the track and field team at the University of New Hampshire. He describes his exploits in high school as "successful, but nothing out of the ordinary."

"I have a hard time remembering what I did (on the track) in high school, but I remember usually finishing in the top three in a lot of the big meets," he said. "I was always decent at the triple jump."

At UNH, he won a New England collegiate championship.

After graduating from UNH, he attended medical school at the University of Mississippi, and then went on to do his medical residency at Harvard, where there was little time for running or jumping, much less competitive track and field. He moved to Reading in 2004, and started to resume running again as time allowed, usually in 5K road races and the like, mostly to stay in shape.

Last year, he started yearning more for competition, and began to train with more of a purpose. After about 6-8 months of work, he felt comfortable enough to participate in meets. USA Track & Field (USATF) has a wide network of events for Masters, beginning at age 35, to 80-plus.

"If you wanted to, you could probably participate in a meet every single week of the year," Brown said. "But realistically, I'll probably get to between 4-6 meets a year, during the indoor and outdoor season."

In March, he traveled to Winston-Salem, N.C., where he won the triple jump with a distance of 12.63 meters (41.4 feet). His best posted time in the 400 is 55.47, which he ran at a meet at Boston University last December, and his top time in the 200 is 25.44, which he ran at the New Balance Twilight Meet in Waltham in June. He also runs in relay events.

Brown has also participated in the Greater Boston Track Club Invitational in Cambridge in January, and the USATF Indoor Championships in Providence, R.I., in February.

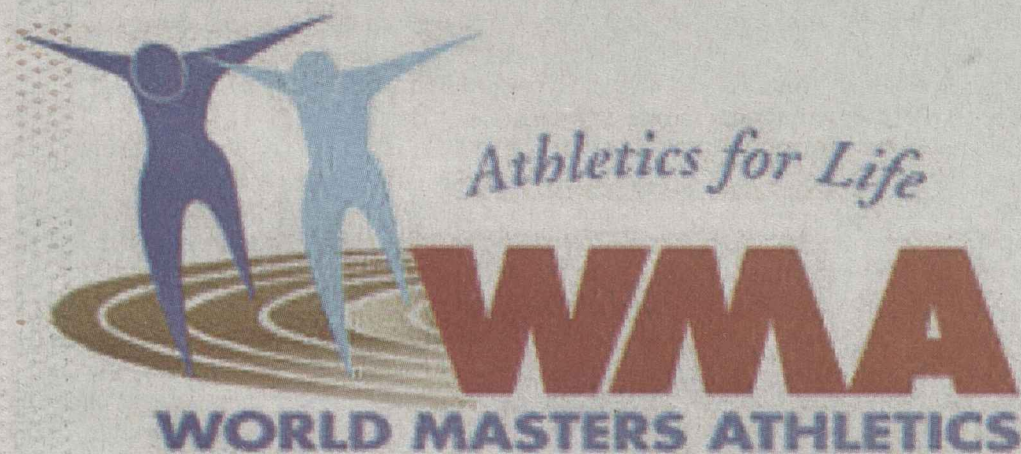

"A lot of times, where you finish depends upon who shows up," Brown said. "All of us have jobs, so whether you attend a meet depends upon your schedule."

Movie Reviews

"Ant-Man"

by Paul Feely

"ANT-MAN" IS AN ENTERTAINING BLEND OF A SUPERHERO story and a caper film. It's the funniest and most grounded Marvel movie to date. Paul Rudd (above) plays Ant-Man and proves that even the littlest hero can pack a big punch.

"ANT-MAN"

A lot of hopes are riding on Marvel's Ant-Man.

Marking the end of the second phase of films in Marvel's cinematic universe, Ant-Man is also noteworthy for being Marvel Studios' most problem-plagued production to date, with original director Edgar Wright (Shaun of the Dead) walking away from the project after butting heads with Marvel over the movie's television and tone.

Combined with a character who is barely known outside of comic book fandom, a set of superpowers that seems kind of absurd and a superstar (Paul Rudd) who almost exclusively does comedy, it was clear this little hero was going to be a big, big gamble. Could this be Marvel Studios' first dud since Disney bought the company in 2009?

In a word, no. While it doesn't have the near-perfect mix of action, comedy and emotion found in last year's Guardians of the Galaxy, Ant-Man is an entertaining blend of a superhero origin story and a caper film, the funniest and most grounded Marvel movie to date. Where Avengers: Age of Ultron was all globe-trotting action, Ant-Man uses its small size to tell a more contained, character-driven story, with lots of laughs and a surprising amount of heart.

Rudd plays Scott Lang, a skilled San Francisco thief who's jailed for a Robin Hood-style burglary targeting crooked executives. Upon his release from prison he vows to go straight, but when his estranged wife (Judy Greer) threatens to cut him off from his daughter if he doesn't get some sort of steady income, Lang is talked into one more big heist by his pal Luis (Michael Pena, who steals most of the scenes he's in).

This burglary leads to Lang crossing paths with Hank Pym (Michael Douglas), the inventor of a suit that can shrink its wearer down to the size of an insect and allow him to summon and control various types of ants. Pym wants Lang to infiltrate the headquarters of Pym's former research company, where the megalomaniacal Darren Cross (House of Cards' Corey Stoll) is using Pym's technology to create the Yellowjacket, a militarized version of the Ant-Man suit.

This causes plenty of friction between Pym and his daughter, Hope (Evangeline Lilly), who thinks she should be the one to undertake the mission.

She resents Lang's involvement in the plan, even as the inevitable romantic sparks begins to simmer between the two. But when the Yellowjacket threat becomes very large and very real, Lang's superhero trial by fire begins, and he's willing to sacrifice everything to keep his loved ones safe.

As Marvel movies go, Ant-Man is lighter on action than most, something exacerbated by the fact it feels a bit longer than necessary. We don't see Lang don the Ant-Man suit until half an hour in, and while there are plenty of cool shrinking effects as he tries to master the suit's abilities, there are only a couple of set-piece battles in the film: one against a character that paves the way for Ant-Man's entry into the Avengers, and a climactic fight that uses a Thomas the Tank Engine train set to hilarious effect.

But director Peyton Reed has done a good job of making Ant-Man's oddball abilities seem quite awesome in practice, while drawing warmly human performances out of Rudd, Douglas and particularly Lilly, who we're dying to see become a permanent part of the Marvel universe.

And even though Ant-Man's origins differ markedly from the comics, the movie does hook into the greater Marvel universe in several ways, including a 1989 prologue sequence that features a familiar face (and some mind-blowing digital de-aging effects - you'd swear Michael Douglas is in his 40s), as well as the very first appearance of another Marvel super-type, in a flashback scene that's a bit of an emotional gut-punch. Ant-Man proves that even the littlest hero can pack a big punch.

"MINIONS"

The Minions get their own star vehicle spin-off, but the end result plays like an elongated extra on a Despicable Me dvd.

For a quick shot of very silly, cinematic family fun, there can be few creatures more qualified to serve that need than the bouncing, amicable gibberish-spouting yellow Minions. Whether you know what a Minion is probably depends on familiarity with the Despicable Me franchise. These critters served as henchman and have now been given starring billing in their own film. It is entertaining in a large part because Minions never tries to pretend it is something subliminally serious or involves social commentary.

This is a film that reflects its own animation style. Illumination Entertainment operate a 2D world in which sharp lines and bright colours keep the action front and center and easy to follow - there's no need to search the background for hidden detail.

The comedy store that Minions operates out of is slapstick. We are treated to a history of their existence from prehistoric times until 1968, 42 years BG (before Gru). They live to serve evil bosses but the trouble is they always have to find new ones after accidentally killing master after master.

A Tyrannosaurus Rex is pushed over a cliff into flaming lava thanks to a series of clumsy mishaps. The minions communicate in sped-up helium-pitched nonsense with occasional known words flying loose. It's amazing how well feelings can be conveyed in this tongue.

The narrative begins with the minions living peacefully in a frozen cave that they fled to after another of their accidental murders. Autonomous civilization proves boring so innovator Kevin (Pierre Coffin) announces that he's going on a mission to find a new boss. Bob (Pierre Coffin) and Stuart (Pierre Coffin) volunteer to join him and before long they're in New York, asking babies for directions and soaking up signs of the time - posters of Nixon, records by Jimi and late-night TV.

Scarlet Overkill (Sandra Bullock) - a glossy-haired, pointy-faced, female baddie is the star attraction. After some state-crossing and a couple of joke sequences playing off the good manners of evil-doers she has become their new boss.

They go to England, meet Sandra's enjoyably chilled hippy boyfriend, Herb (Jon Hamm) and learn that their first task under her is no big deal - just steal Queen Elizabeth's crown.

One of the principal lures of Minions is that the next joke or reference is never far away and always wittily executed as the plot rolls rapidly and smoothly.

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY

TRIVIA: An annual tradition during MLB's All-Star break is the home run derby. When was the first home run derby and who was the winner?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

While the Bruins had a record number of attendees for this year's Bruins' Development Camp at Ristuccia Arena in Wilmington with 37 prospects, draft picks and free agents hoping to hook on with the NHL organization, there was at least one prominent name missing. Charlestown, Mass. native and Boston University defenseman Matt Grzelcyk will miss the entire week of on-ice sessions for the development camp while rehabbing from a torn ACL.

Grzelcyk originally injured the knee during a BU practice when his leg was rolled over from behind, and the 21-year-old defenseman played the final eight games of the Terriers season with a sore knee. It didn't stop him from having his best season with the Terriers while posting a career-best 10 goals and 38 points in 41 games for Boston University as one of their top defensemen on a team that came within one game of an NCAA national championship.

It means that Grzelcyk won't be ready to go for the beginning of his senior season at Boston University, and will probably finally be ready to play a month or two into the season for the Terriers. Taking the place of the B's third round pick from the 2012 draft was fellow BU defenseman and Burlington, Mass. native Brien Diffley, who came to the development camp as an undrafted camp invite.

Jim Bransfield, of Wilmington, biked 62 miles in the 2015 Ride to End Alzheimer's on Saturday, July 18. Beginning and ending in Fort Devens, Mass., the Ride provides a 2-mile family ride, 30-mile, 62-mile and 100-mile route reaching all the way from Western Massachusetts to Southern New Hampshire.

"This is the third year I have done the ride," said Bransfield. "It has been a great personal experience. I wanted to help raise awareness of Alzheimer's and money for research."

"Jim and the hundreds of other riders have made a big commitment to help fight Alzheimer's," said Jim Wessler, president/CEO of the Alzheimer's Association, Massachusetts/New Hampshire Chapter. "His commitment inspires us and it also supports critical research and programs."

More than 5 million people in the U.S. have Alzheimer's, according to the Alzheimer's Association. The fatal disease of the brain has no cure yet, but the Alzheimer's Association is the international non-profit leader in research for effective treatments and someday a cure.

Started by the Noonan family, the event has raised more than $3,000,000 for Alzheimer's disease Research. Formerly called Memory Ride, the Ride to End Alzheimer's grew from a small, family-inspired event to a cycling challenge attracting riders throughout New England and beyond. For more information about the Ride to End Alzheimer's visit rtrendalz.org. ##

The Alzheimer Association provides services and programs for those with Alzheimer's, family and professional caregivers in the form of support groups, a 24/7 Helpline, care consultation, advocacy efforts, and education programs. The Alzheimer's Association is also the world's leading nonprofit funder of research into causes, treatments and, someday, a cure. For more information about Alzheimer programs, visit www.alz.org/MANH or call 800.272.3900.

The worldwide phenomenon known as the Ice Bucket Challenge to raise money and awareness for the ALS Association is coming back next month.

Last summer, an international sensation started in the Northeast part of the United States, whereby people poured buckets of cold ice water on themselves while challenging friends and family to spread ALS awareness via a shared video, according to the ALS Association. The viral phenomenon, known as the Ice Bucket Challenge, brought in more than $220 million for the fight against ALS, also known as Lou Gehrig's disease.

A Massachusetts man was one of the founders. Pete Frates, who was diagnosed with ALS in 2012, grew up in Beverly, Mass., attended and played sports at St. John's Prep School in Danvers, Mass. He was a former captain of the Boston College baseball team and professional baseball player in Europe.

The association dedicated to finding a cure ALS recently launched a cam-

SELECT SCHOOLS (WINCHESTER)

"School Committee Chair Cindy Bohne brought new superintendent Dr. Judith Evans in front of the Board of Selectmen for the first time recently," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Bohne informed the board that Evans had many years of experience as both a superintendent and assistant superintendent, both in Shrewsbury and Medway."

"Evans takes over for the recently departed Bill McAlduff who served as superintendent for eight years, including the last year as interim superintendent while the board searched for a permanent replacement."

"Bohne told the selectmen that the School Committee chose Evans because 'she's a fierce advocate for students.' During the meeting when they first voted on and accepted the nomination of Evans, Bohne called her a 'dynamic educator' who was humble, poised, articulate, unflappable, thoughtful, smart, and decisive."

"The committee appreciated her talking about the 'whole child' and about excellence and equality being 'twin pillars.' Bohne said she would advocate for teachers, while also challenging the School Committee to go to another level."

"For her part, Evans showed enthusiasm to get started. She officially took over on July 1. She's already visited the high school construction project, plus each school during her initial interview phase.

"Evans believes in bringing people together, as she said that 'it's important to get to know each other. This will help collaboration.'..."

BOWLING: GREEN (TEWKSBURY)

"Anyone driving down Main Street near the Lowell line can see the structure for a new bowling, dining, and entertainment business emerging from the cleared site," notes the Tewksbury "Town Crier."

"Wamesit Lanes is on track to be completed in the fall on 2015."

"Director of Community Development Steve Sadwick told the Crier, 'I have not heard anything that indicates they won't be on time.'"

"Sadwick communicated via email that 'Staff has confirmed in a recent paign to bring back the Ice Bucket Challenge in August, and every August, until there is a cure. The hashtag for the campaign is #ALSIceBucketChallenge.

The ALS Association provides information about the Ice Bucket Challenge:

What is the ALS Ice Bucket Challenge?

The ALS Ice Bucket Challenge started in the summer of 2014 and became the world's largest global social media phenomenon. More than 17 million people uploaded their challenge videos to Facebook; these videos were watched by 440 million people a total of 10 billion times. It is now an annual event to raise awareness and funds to find treatments and a cure for amyotrophic lateral sclerosis

(ALS).

How do I participate in the ALS Ice Bucket Challenge?

1.ACCEPT: Accept the challenge;

2.RECORD: Take a video of yourself dumping a bucket of ice water over your head to increase awareness of ALS;

3.UPLOAD: Upload your video to social media, tagging/challenging at least three of your friends;

4.GIVE: Make a donation to support the ALS community.

Do I have to donate if I take the challenge?

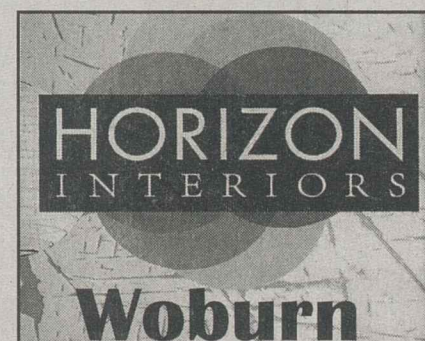

No, by participating in the ALS Ice Bucket Challenge you're already raising awareness of the disease. Making a donation, however, will help drive forward the search for treatments and a cure for ALS by funding cutting-edge research and supporting people living with the disease. So participating and donating is ideal.

Will the ALS Ice Bucket Challenge take place again this year?

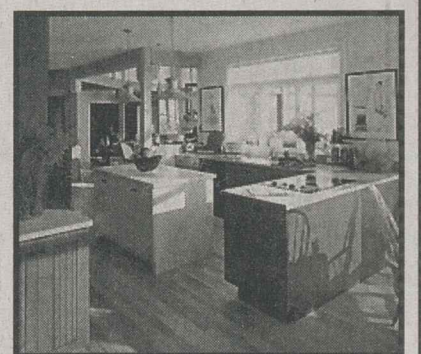

Yes. The challenge will take place this August and every August until there is a cure.

•Answer to this week's trivia question: The first home run derby was held at the Metrodome in Minneapolis in 1985. That first derby was won by Dave Parker who at the time played for Cincinnati. 1985 was his fifth of seven All-Star Game appearances.

Sampler From S-6

light. The living room, off to the right, has a homey stone or brick fireplace.

None of the rooms run together in this plan. The dining room is well separated from both the kitchen and the living room, yet easily accessible from either direction.

Standing at the kitchen sink, you can gaze out at the rear yard and a deck that could be extended to span the entire back of the house, if desired. Utilities hide behind folding doors, as does a small pantry. Lazy Susan shelving provides access to corner cupboards.

Rear View

The master suite is roomy and practical, complete with a private bathroom and walk-in closet. French doors open onto the front porch.

Two mirror-image bedrooms are upstairs in the Altadena. Each has plenty of closet space and a private lav. This bungalow style house plan's tub and toilet connect to both rooms.

Bedrooms From S-6

When they are looking at a completely empty room, they think it is spacious enough for their needs as they try to imagine all their items fitting in the space. Yet when they get their main furnishings of a bed, dresser and standing closet in the room, the person sees just how much room is taken up with these large pieces of furniture. Even with just having a few clothes on the floor and knickknacks on the dresser the room looks and feels cluttered.

Yet people who are getting homes built from the ground up are experiencing these same issues. While they have more flexibility with creating large storage options such as built-in cabinets, walk-in closets and shelves, they are still underestimating the amount of room that they need. These people are also purchasing floor plans without knowing that the plans can be modified to offer ways to keep a bedroom more organized.

When it comes to clearing out the clutter, people have to think beyond the temporary solutions. Yes, they can get rid of the things they don't need, donate unused furniture, and place extra clothing into storage containers. Yet placing things into storage containers stowed away into the corners of the room only leads to using up more space as the containers can detract from the décor and theme in the bedroom. Sitting down and truly thinking about how to create a storage solution that works with the bedroom is ideal whether you are getting a custom home built or redesigning an existing home.

Towns From S-3

conversation with Don MacLaren that he is hoping for an opening in October 2015.

'In addition, Sadwick said, 'There is a big push for advertisement to come out in August to set up leagues [for fall].'

'Now, the facility is beginning to take shape, with the basic structure complete. The project is estimated to cost $12 million.

'The MacLarens believe Wamesit Lanes will create 80-100 new jobs, with about 40 full-time positions including positions in management, waiters, bartenders, maintenance, sales and marketing staff, and opportunities for high school students to work in the arcade.

'The developer, Donald MacLaren, could not be reached for comment after multiple phone calls....'

-Research ahead (Reading)-
A recent meeting of Reading's

Community Planning and Development Commission (CPDC) yielded a number of results, according to the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

For example: "To end their meeting, the CPDC discussed their goals to move forward with the Planned Residential Development (PRD)," notes the "Chronicle."

"A concern was brought forth by resident Tony D'Arezzo, who worried that, if PRD were restructured or deleted, then Town Meeting would potentially have no say in the process.

"The reason why the PRD doesn't really work in Reading is that it has to go before Town Meeting,' John Weston said, adding that more clarity should exist in order for PRD to work with Town Meeting.

"Chairman Jeff Hansen asked Jessie Wilson if she felt that discussion on the topic would develop better with presence from the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) and Town Engineer.

"Wilson said that this was a possibility, while others agreed that more work and consultation with the public had to be accomplished before anything further could ensue.

"The CPDC agreed that more research into the topic and consultation with other departments would help them confront this topic in their August meeting...."

Brown From S-1

where I work," but he enjoys working out at Reading High. The unprecedented success of the Reading High track teams under Hall of Fame coach Hal Croft are legendary, of course, and the track and field facilities are top notch. And when he trains in Reading, he is closer to home and his wife and two children, ages four and nine.

"I like the facilities at Reading. There are two (jumping) pits, and the field is great to run train at Harvard, "since it's so close to on," Brown said.

Hopefully for Calvin Brown, all that training will pay off with some success next month at the World Masters Championships' in France. The competition runs from Aug. 4-16. Brown's schedule is expected to be intense. On Sunday, Aug. 9, he will participate in the qualifying heats for the 200 meters at Balmont Stadium in Lyon, with the semifinals and finals to be held the following day.

Qualifying rounds in the triple jump follow on Tuesday, Aug. 11, at Rhone Stadium in Parilly, with the finals on Aug. 12.

This week's Sampler: Altadena

Altadena is a charming & compact house plan

A welcoming front porch spans the front of the Altadena and wraps around to the left. The low-slung roofline, central dormer and thick, tapered porch columns are reminiscent of the Craftsman bungalows that were popular in the early 1900s.

Outside dimensions are 44 feet by 40 feet, allowing the home to fit neatly on a city lot. With close to 1,800 square feet of living space, this plan isn't large. But it's not to be underestimated. As a bonus, it's designed for construction over a full basement.

The entry has a high ceiling and is bright. Sunlight streams in through three windows in the dormer overhead, bathing the stairs and hallway in natural

Solutions for bedrooms to cut down on the clutter

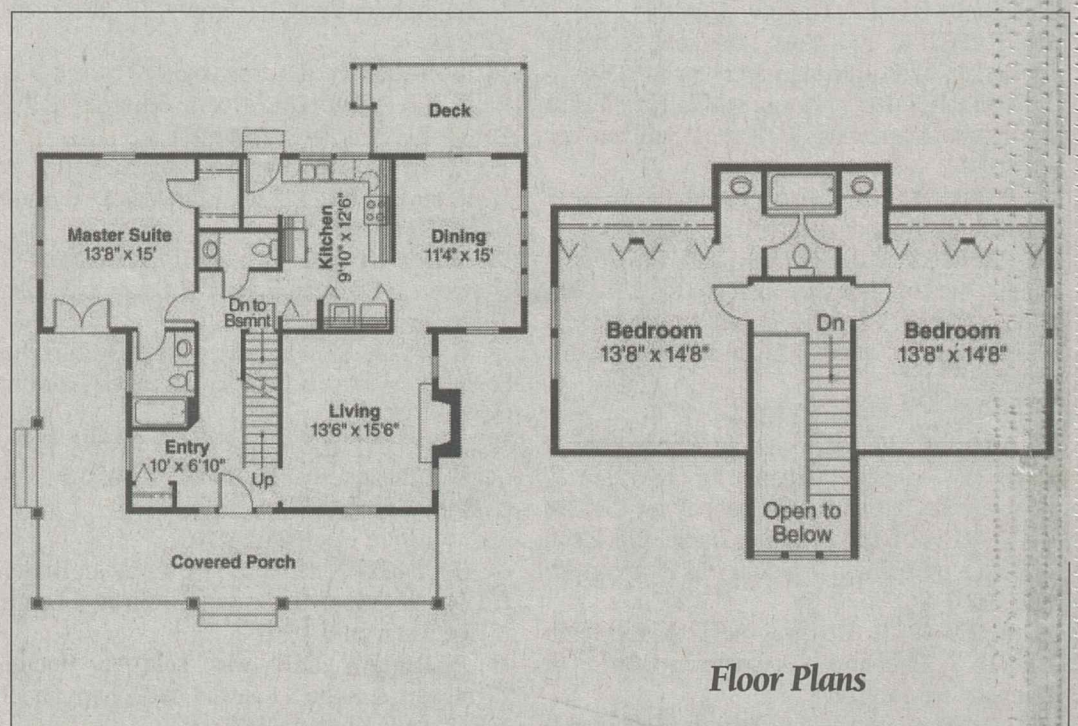

There has been a growing trend in the local and national media to give homeowners storage advice that basically tells them to donate or toss away their things to have a more organized space. While it sounds like commonsense in many instances, we need to avoid coming across as chastising people for buying the items that they want and oftentimes need to create a relaxing lifestyle for themselves. We assume that homeowners have too many possessions and this situation is leading to cluttered bedrooms. The problem may actually be the bedroom itself.

Bedroom sizes can be deceptive for people who are purchasing existing homes.

Bedrooms To S-5

STONE VENEER ON THE CHIMNEY AND PORCH COLUMN SUPPORTS combine with side gables and a central dormer to create a cottage look for this craftsman home plan. Please note: Featured guest designers have different drafting styles, therefore construction drawing layouts and contents will vary according to the region from which they originate.
